TOTAL RESOURCE AUCTIONS NAMES NEW VP OF OPERATIONS

ATLANTA – Total Resource Auctions has announced that Tim Donohue has been named vice president of operations.

In this newly created position, Donohue will assist Bill Tiedemann, Total Resource Auctions vice president and general manager, with the expansion of North American Total Resource Auctions locations.

“Tim brings many years of remarketing experience, great management skills and a tremendous amount of energy to the table,” said Total Resource Auctions president Jamie Porter. “The Total Resource Auctions team is looking forward to the positive impact he will continue to make with our customers and our business.”

Prior to joining Manheim, Donohue worked at Golden Gate Auto Auction as the assistant general manager. In 1989, Donohue joined Manheim’s Bay Cities Auto Auction as institutional sales manager. He was later promoted to general manager at Bay Cities and assumed his most recent role as general manager at Greater Nevada Auto Auction in 2003. As general manager, Donohue was responsible for the relocation and development of the operating location on more than 200 acres in North Las Vegas.
