MANHEIM'S TOTAL RESOURCE AUCTIONS PUTS ON BIGGER BOOTS IN TEXAS

Wholesale salvage customer demand drives addition of new standalone Dallas location

ATLANTA –Total Resource Auctions, a network of 74 salvage wholesale auctions, recently announced the addition of Total Resource Auctions Dallas, in Wilmer, Texas. Built on 71 acres and featuring 26,000 total square feet, the new standalone facility is the company's largest and newest location. It incorporates 12,000 square feet of office space, that when fully completed later this summer, will include two Simulcast sale lanes and a wash bay that will hold up to 30 cars — all designed to create a quality customer experience for wholesale salvage buyers and sellers.

To celebrate the expansion of its Texas "boot print," the location held its first sale on June 3 in the facility, now under construction. The sale drew more than 120 in-lane and online customers with 134 of 149 vehicles sold.

"As the needs of our insurance customers continue to grow, we want to offer them the right type of facilities and support," said Jamie Porter, president, Total Resource Auctions. "With the addition of our second Dallas location, we can offer more sales, increased flexibility and added customer conveniences – and enough space for even the highest-volume sellers and buyers to stretch out."

The new location doesn't just help salvage buyers and sellers conduct business more efficiently; it was also designed to conserve vital environmental resources. Recycled concrete was used on half of the 46 acres of surface that was developed. In addition, the facility will use an advanced geothermal heating and cooling system and reuse 90 percent of the water from its wash bays.

Total Resource Auctions Dallas hosts in-lane and online sales every Thursday at 9:30 a.m. The sales feature a diverse selection of insurance total-loss vehicles, cars, trucks, motorcycles and heavy equipment. A formal grand opening is planned for later this summer, upon completion of all construction.
